Issue #2: The Wrench Studios

The Wrench Studios™ is something I created to officiate my work online, but its origin extends much further beyond that purpose.

First, why the word “Wrench”? The truth is, it really popped into my head many years ago. I used to draw comics depicting Master Freeze as a shinobi destined to save the universe, and one of his mentors was an old-fashioned martial artist who fought with an ancient weapon resembling a wrench. This character was called Master Wrench, and eventually became the mascot of my next big project: The Wrench Clan.

In 2018, my childhood friends and I wanted to create our own exclusive club back in 2018. Naturally, I was the leader of the friend group. I wanted to get everybody on the same page during our in-person hangouts, so I started a Discord server and started to create lore for fun. Eventually, the Wrench Clan became a “Squadron” and then experienced a long villain arc called “The Legion” before the group rebooted.

In 2025, after 7 years of keeping the Wrench group running, I ended things on my own terms. While the Wrench certainly had a legendary run, it was time to put things to rest as members of the organization parted ways. However, I was able to build an impressive creative portfolio thanks to this era. Since I was the one who came up with all of the ideas, I have no problem taking the names and faces I created and putting them to better use today. That is why I am glad to have this fresh start.

If you are curious to see some of the work I did for the early version of the Wrench Studios, you can check this playlist from the official Master Freeze YouTube channel (please note that I was as young as 14 when I started some of these projects):

I will start anew with The Wrench Studios™ and contribute to it with the intent to make it my lifelong work. Please stay tuned and enjoy my work!
